

August 10, 1946.

Dear Henry:

It's been a long time since I've heard from you, so even though I'm ahead of you by two postcards, I am making this last attempt to get in touch with you. You must be out of the USMS by now (as I am on inactive list, Ens. USNR) unless it is a better racket than I thought. I'm up here at Yale now on a Medical Research fellowship, on leave of absence from Medical School, working on the genetics of bacteria. But I'll tell you more about their sex life when you reply to this letter. Also I'd like to visit Boston sometime this summer or Fall, and I thought you might be in that neighborhood. Also, it would be fun to say hello again, so let me know where you be. Till then, as ever,

Joshua Lederberg

Platt
==